

Transfer Center

- 1) Our current Transfer Center is really just an extension of the Counseling waiting area. It is not a defined space nor is it an inviting or comfortable space for students to drop in.
- 2) We now have grant-funded staff (A2B, ESO) with transfer goals. We can better utilize staff time if they spend some hours in the Transfer Center helping students on a drop in basis. For example, staff can assist students on how to use transfer websites, researching majors, beginning their UC transfer planner, researching scholarships etc.
- 3) A highly visible, attractive Transfer Center will communicate to students, the college's commitment to the transfer process.
- 4) A comfortable drop-in space will facilitate peer support and activities such as Transfer Club, Peer Transfer Helpers, etc.
- 5) Faculty can feel comfortable bringing classes into the Center for research related to classroom topics; faculty can also use the Center to research their own topics of interest.
- 6) It would be nice to have a Center that could accommodate more students. We also need more staffing to accommodate those students. It would be great to have the floor plan for the CETL; to me and few other people who looked at the space, it looks to be small after adding 2 to 3 offices in to the CEITL.
- 7) I liked to hear from students and what they think of it. This is all for them not for me or the Transfer Center.
- 8) As discussed at the SSPC, we also need to think about the relocation of CIETL and the kitchen, if we decide to move forward with the Transfer Center relocation.

Art Gallery

Hi,

I just got this email last Friday, and I don't see times or locations for the solicited feedback on the relocation project. So, I'll give my feedback here, if I may.

As a teacher in the Digital Art & Animation group, and as a someone who has had his work displayed in the Art Gallery, I am concerned at the prospect of kicking out the Art Gallery without due consideration given for where the gallery will be newly situated. You don't suggest where it might be relocated in the email, but from what I understand, the suggested space — the old Career Center's room — is inadequate to an art gallery's needs. You need lots of wall space and track lighting, which the career center's current space lacks. Unless the new space for the gallery is well suited to being a gallery and funded to make it into a workable space, I don't believe it to be a reasonable action to move it from its current location.

While the Career Center is an important student resource, so is the Art Gallery! When I was earning my AA in Art at Long Beach City College, I worked in the gallery for a full-time curator employed by the college. It was an important part of my education to see the shows and be part of the process of installing the exhibitions. It was a fundamental part of what led me to a successful 30+ year career as a visual designer and my current career as an educator in the fields of art and design. Art is an essential part of a rich cultural life, and art galleries support student's cultural needs. Those needs should be on an equal standing with all other aspects of academic life.

Sincerely,

Career Center

As I have discussed with Kim, overall I'm ok with relocating, if the space can be made to work. As it stands, the location I'm at now is larger than the Art Gallery space. Once an office is put in, the space will be even smaller. A way to fix this would be to relocate the Kitchen to the current break room in building 9 first floor. The space could then function as an office leaving the current Gallery space available to use for the Career Center. Also, like my current location, the Gallery does not accommodate any growth potential for extra staff that is needed as we pursue internship integration with CTE and other degrees.

It may be wise to bring in an architect before a decision is made to do some "What If" space utilization plans and cost analysis to see if what is wanted, is feasible and the right thing to do for students.

Pros	Cons
Possibly more visible to students; ability to have signage to direct students far greater.	Space is smaller than current location; relocation of kitchen will help this.
Easier for Counseling and SparkPoint students to be escorted to the Center and not hope they will walk across campus to find us. (many don't)	No additional space for growth (staff); problem exists in current location too.
Current Career Center location would offer better visibility for the Art in the Gallery if	Loss of easy access to host events at The Grove

we were to switch. (My Opinion)
Most colleges have a Career/Transfer Center that is one area, or close to each other which makes it convenient for students.
